DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Walker et al (WO 98/10361).

As to Claims 1-19 Walker discloses either explicitly or implicitly as obvious (see at least pages 1-175, but in particular pages 1-10) providing a user with access to an online store through a network, the store having named products with a description of its attributes and features and a price made available to the user, receiving selection requests for selected products, providing the user with access to bid conditions for the selected products or services or entertainment tickets, providing the user with second bid(s) originating from other store(s) participating in a reverse auction who are preregistered and agree to provide the second bids for a related product at a checkout time or after placing the bid conditions, with each of the second bids conforming to the bid conditions, which bid conditions are arranged in an order according to one or more of the attributes, with that order based on any of a number of product attributes including price, where one or more of the products has more than one component which can include a product or a service, where one or more of the components is provided from a different other store and the bid is a joint bid between one or more of the other stores, where the product includes a set of one or more of the other products and a service, and where the user's personal information is not disclosed to the other stores.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to have listed some of the bid conditions from which a buyer could select in addition to those proposed by the buyer, and not only be familiar with Walker's well known invention but also to be able to use it with multiple variations of its many conditions and practices (the patent is 175 pages long, excluding over 85 pages of drawings), which collectively include all of the applicant's claims, because it would be common sense and advantageous.

2. Note is taken by the examiner that should the applicant find objectionable any statements made herein by the examiner regarding inherency, implicitness, obviousness, or Official Notice, Applicant can make a proper challenge to those statements only by providing adequate information or argument so that on its face it creates a reasonable doubt regarding the circumstances justifying those statements: a simple response requesting a reference without doing so, or a response that fails to logically refute the basic assumptions underlying the justification, will result in an improper and failed challenge and those unchallenged statements will remain the record of the case. Applicants must seasonably challenge those statements in the first response following an Office Action. If an applicant fails to do so, his right to challenge them is waived.

3. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Richard Fults whose telephone number is 703-305-5416. The examiner can normally be reached on weekdays from 8:30 to 5:00.
